THE CARD OF MR. C. S. POOLE.

The first notes passed between us in Manning, and on receipt of his last I immediately went to Sumter and secured the services of Mr. Walter I. Moses, it being understood by all parties that Mr. I. M. Bagnal was only seting temporarily. Mr. Moses left Sumter early on the merning of the 19th of December, proceeded to Manning and there met Mr. Wm. J. Clark, Jr., who conducted him to Mr. Galiuchat, who was concealed in Black River swamp, an attempt having been made to arrest them. Mr. Moses delivered my note to Mr. Galiuchat, who, after a few minutes conversation with his principal, returned an answer in writing, the purport of which was that Preston D. Mood would be at the place mentioned in my last note and at the time appointed.

"Mr. Moses then said to Mr. Galiuchat: Well, sir, we had better perfect our arrangements and determine on the weapons and the distance."

sir, we had better perfect our arrangements and determine on the weapons and the distance.

"Mr. Galluchat exclaimed: "Why, sir, you don't propose to fight to-night?"

"Mr. Moses replied that he did, and had brought candies and a pair of duelling platols, from which Mr. Galluchat could select.

"Mr. Galluchat then said: 'Well, sir, we don't fight iff the night time, nor will we fight in this State. We prefer eastern North Carolina."

"Mr. Moses replied that if Mr. Galluchat preferred his principal would meet him anywhere that could be reached by morning, but that he (Mr. Moses) refused to allow his principal to leave the State, as he was satisfied that, if they did that, all parties would be arrested and prevented from fighting, as the authorities were on the alert, and concluded by asking if Mr. Galluchat positively refused to allow his principal to fight in this State.

"Mr. Galluchat excused himself, and stepped to where his principal was; came back and reiterated that his principal would not fight in this State."

"Mr. Moses then refused to deliver Mr.

"Mr. Moses then refused to deliver Mr. Mood's last communication to his principal, and notified Mr. Galluchat that if his principal atil refused to fight in the State he would be posted by me. Mr. Galluchat still refusing Mr. Galluchat still refusing Mr. Moses left him and resumed me at a page. Moses then refused to deliver Mr.

Let the public draw their own conclusions.

If a man will fight, he will fight anywhere.

Those are the circumstances stated, as conclusive as I can state tham, and I now denounce Preston D. Mooi as a coward and allar, and stall he seen on the street here every day, where Mr. Mood can easily find me.

MR. POTTS POSITIVE.

Unshaken in His Bellet that Scott is the Man Who Swindled Him.

In the case of Edward S. Scott, who is accused by John A. Potts of getting him into a testified yesterday that Scott was in his (Jayno's) office, in the Equitable building at the time Mr. Potts avers that he was in his company up town. Scott, Mr. Jayne said, did not quit the town. Scott, Mr. Jayne said, did not quit the room, except to show a visitor to the roof of the building. Mr. Potts was further questioned, and reaffirmed with great positiveness that Scott was the man who called at his house and induced him to visit the fare bank. Justice Otterbourg, in giving his decision, said:

"I have read carefully all the testimony in this singular case—the points are too immiliar to need repetition. The complainant and his wife swear positively to the lines of the occurrence of the meetings with Seat. I have called their attention to the serious nature of the charge, the great responsibility they have, and to the disgrace of Scott in the confidence of his employeers, and still they insist he is the man.

"On the other hand, the numerous wilnesses for the defendant show that it is physically impossible for Scott to be the man. Some one has committed perjury. A witness may be nonest in his intentions, and yet commit before young tentionally. I am placed in a delicate situation. Ether I must declare that the complainant and wife, or the defendant's wilnesses, have committed perjury. I cannot do either, in justice to them or to the people. In time it may appear that there has been a mistake somewhere, it is my duty to letting before a nary. I will hold the defendant in $1,000 ball to answer,"

Mr. Jayne became Scott's bondsman.
